

Resources for Schools, Camps and Child Care Centers

As the number of children with life-threatening food allergies continues to rise, it is more critical than ever for educators to receive accurate, practical information on how to keep children with food allergies safe. Learn what every educator should know about food allergies. It may just help you save a life.

In-service Training

As part of the newly expanded School Food Allergy Program, FAAN now offers the opportunity to have your school district trained on food allergy safety by our expert staff. Entitled Safe@School®, this in-service training presentation can prepare your staff to confidently CARE™ for students with food allergies by teaching them how to:

- C – Comprehend the food allergy medical basics – Gain a solid understanding with just six key facts
- A – Avoid food allergens – Learn practical techniques on how to manage the classroom, lunch room, field trips, and more
- R – Recognize a reaction – Review all the potential symptoms, from the classic symptoms to the lesser known
- E – Enact emergency protocol – Learn how to administer an epinephrine auto-injector and exactly what to say when calling 911

Educators' Reviews

"The most informative program I have come across in educating my counselors about the seriousness of food allergies."

~Camp Director

"The school nurses gave rave reviews and indicated they would be making changes to improve their food allergy policies."

~School Nurse Program Specialist

"A big hit with our teachers. Excellent. The presentation was informative, thought-provoking, and extremely useful. Many of our staff indicated that they had learned more in that small amount of time than with any other presenter."

~School Principal

"Even though we had worked with children with allergies for many years, there was a lot of information that was new to us. We also appreciated the format – concise, attention-holding and easily understandable."

~Preschool Director

"The training was invaluable to our teachers and the presentation materials were superb. We are going to make it a part of our annual curriculum."

~School Nurse

About FAAN

Founded in 1991, FAAN (the Food Allergy & Anaphylaxis Network) is the world leader in information about food allergy, a potentially life-threatening medical condition. A nonprofit organization based in Fairfax, Va., FAAN provides information and resources about food allergies to patients, their families, schools, health professionals, pharmaceutical companies, the food industry, and government officials. FAAN's educational materials are reviewed by its Medical Advisory Board, which is comprised of leading food allergy experts.

FAAN is also a founding member of the Food Allergy & Anaphylaxis Alliance, an international organization that brings together food allergy groups from around the globe.

For more information, including cost of an in-service, please contact FAAN's Department of Education at (800) 929-4040, ext. 109.